Ice Cream Social at St. Paul's Sunday, Aug. 3, at 1 PM

An old-fashioned Ice Cream Social will be held in the Garden attached to St. Paul's on Sunday, Aug. 3, beginning at 1 PM. "We invite our community to a quiet gathering in the beautiful Garden after the busy time of the Blueberry Weekend," said Barbara Shingler, co-chair of the event. "We are planning vanilla, chocolate, and strawberry cones, with rainbow sprinkles," she added.

Historic St. Paul's Church is flanked on one side by a parish house, dedicated in 1927, which compliments the architecture of the Church, and on the other side is St. Paul's Memorial Garden. "The Parish House and the Memorial Garden give space and symmetry to the outstanding Upjohn church," opines Dr. Edward Stark, Historiographer of the parish. New benches, which are a gift of Robert Wert have been installed in the Garden,

All are invited to the Ice Cream Social from 1 – 4 PM on Sunday, August 3. St. Paul's is located at the corner of Church and Chestnut Streets in Montrose.

More information about Arts and Crafts Festival August 1 and 2 can be found on page 5.

Our Journey Continues...

Jane Chandler and Sandy Schwab, Search Committee co-chairs

By now you have all heard the news that we knew was inevitable, but that none of us wanted to think about...Father Charles will be leaving St. Paul's and the search for a new rector has begun. It is a time filled with emotion. There is sadness and sense of loss for many; most of us will admit it is a little bit scary too. Father Charles has reenergized us—St. Paul's as a whole, and in turn, a good portion of the community. He has given us a glimpse of just how great St. Paul's can be, set us on the path to growth, and instilled in us the important role St. Paul's and its members play in the community and in the world. It is a time of many emotions. We are, however, blessed in many ways. Father Charles will not disappear – I suspect that if you drop into Price Chopper on Tuesdays, you will still stand a good chance of running into him. I imagine there are many committees throughout the County that aren't about to let him slip away into a life of total rest and relaxation, and I am sure many others are yet to benefit from his gifts and his spiritual leadership. It is important for us to remember our rector is leaving, but our friend will still be around.

It is also important for us to remember that this new phase in the life of our parish will be very exciting. Look how far we have come. We have been taught well and we have the skill and the strength to continue down the path that lies ahead. We have grown, and now we issue the call to “Come and Grow” at St. Paul's – we issue this to the community and we issue this to a new rector. There are wonderful things in store for St. Paul's and by working together we will all play a role in making them happen.

Your Search Committee (Jane Chandler, Mary Jane Syle, Jerry Sock, Bernie Zalewski, and Sandy Schwab) has already commenced meeting. Efforts are underway to update the church profile. The key to the profile lies with each of you. By now you have received a survey that will gather information from you that will enable us to develop the profile and clearly define the role and responsibilities of our new rector. It is extremely important that every adult member of your household fill out this questionnaire and return it to St. Paul's no later than August 30th.

Throughout the search process we ask for your prayers and we extend our assurance that we will keep you, our Wardens, and the Vestry informed as to the status of the process.

In their recent letter, our Wardens, Rachel and John stated, “We have the foundations for future growth, we have a committed congregation, and now, we must renew our search for a rector. Our journey continues.”

Together, and with God's guidance, we say once again, “Come and Grow.” Together, we can witness the miracles that will occur.

PLEASE TAKE FIVE MINUTES NOW TO COMPLETE AND MAIL YOUR SURVEY

Letter from the Senior Warden

It continues to be a very busy time at St. Paul's. Many of our committees and teams met in the month of July to anticipate the needs and realities of this fall.

The Search Committee, appointed at our annual meeting in May, has been busy compiling the parish profile and a questionnaire for all of our parishioners. You may have filled one out a few years ago but much has changed in that time. Please, take a few minutes to fill out and return this one. The Search Committee needs and wants to know what YOU think!

The Finance Committee has also met recently to review the first six months of 2008 and project income and expenses for the remainder of the year. Though we are right on track with our regular budgetary items, there is work to do before we can continue with other projects like the exterior painting and the accessibility ramp. The vestry approved the bid for the accessibility ramp but has asked for the Finance committee to consider ways we can shoulder this expense.

We have much to be proud of here at St. Paul's. Our renewed commitment to our community is obvious and much appreciated in the Spirit of Summer program. The committees and teams, lead by competent and dedicated lay leaders, are blazing forward, helping the vestry to make careful and informed decisions. We are blessed to participate in a thoughtful and intentional worship service. We are poised to move forward as a community of faith in turbulent times.

As always, your vestry is available and ready to answer questions or hear comments.

Come and grow...

Church School Registration on September 7th

This fall, we will use the Worship for Life curriculum from Logos Production. This 13 unit program is appropriate for various ages (preK to 6th grade), introducing the elements of worship, helping children participate more actively in the worship service. Additionally, a variety of activities and lessons provide hands on learning opportunities in the form of art, puppetry, storytelling, creative writing and more!

This program dovetails nicely with the beginning of a monthly "Children's Church Sunday" where the children will serve as assistant lectors and ushers as well as have a children's sermon about the Gospel. The first children's service will be on 9/28!

And don't forget "Special Sundays" each month. Our first Special Sunday will be fabric painting with Mrs. Nancy Finlon on 10/19. There will be a full calendar for the fall in the September newsletter.

PS. Invite your friends and neighbors of all ages... Susan Klein and friends will be returning to St. Pauls' on Sunday, August 24th for the 9 am service. Susan and her puppet friends do a remarkable job talking about faith, love and kindness!

Music Camp Update

The scholars have been busy this summer living fully into the Spirit of Summer. In June, St. Paul's hosted a wonderful music camp led by Sarah Birchard and Jamie Dean-Brackett. Over 65 children participated in the four day camp and completed the week with a wonderful performance on Friday, June 27th. On July 4th, about 35 of the campers were on our float, singing and waving flags. What a wonderful spirit to share!

The camp is already scheduled for June 23-26, 2009 with a performance scheduled for 6 pm on the 26th. Mark your calendars, you'll be impressed!

Where the Red Fern Grows

On July 12th, the Church School Scholars had a great time hosting a movie at the Montrose Theatre. It was very neat for the children to welcome others and have the run of the theatre. The movie brought forth great questions about life and death, love and devotion, and the strong presence of God and prayer.

Christmas In August at Historic St. Paul's
Supports Susquehanna Library
Aug. 1 & 2

An Arts & Crafts Festival will be held at St. Paul's on Aug. 1 & 2 in conjunction with the Annual Blueberry Festival to support the Susquehanna Library.

A wide array of area talent will be featured, including caricature portraits while you wait, jewelry, Christmas decorations and gifts, assorted wood products, animal and wildlife embroidery, jewelry art, knitted and crocheted items, homemade breads and jams, and wool fiber miniatures.

Additionally, representatives from the Montrose Areas High School Class of 2009 will be on hand with their class designed game, Montrose-opoly.

St. Paul's will unveil the limited edition Angel Christmas Ornament, depicting the Angel Tiffany Window, as well as angel note cards. This will be the first in a series to be made available to the public. St. Paul's Spirit of Summer t-shirts will also be available.

Blueberry Festival items sponsored by the Susquehanna County Historical Society and Free Library will also be on sale at St. Paul's, as well as on the Green. All table rental fees paid by the artists and crafters will be donated to the Historical Society and Library. The participating artists and crafters have donated items for a raffle to benefit the Historical Society and Library.

Tours of Historic St. Paul's, which was designed by Richard Upjohn (1802-1878), will be held on a regular basis throughout the weekend. Included in the tour are the recently restored Tiffany Window by Louis Comfort Tiffany (1848-1933).

Historic St. Paul's is located at the corner of Church and Chestnut Streets in Montrose.

Thomas Follert, Guest Soloist
Sunday, August 17

Tom Follert has returned to live in and be part of Montrose. His love of Montrose is apparent in his community involvement, and we are pleased he will join our Worship on Sunday, August 17.

Tom is a graduate of Montrose Area High School. He furthered his education at Susquehanna University, where he was a soloist in the University Choir and a member of the Chamber Singers. While living in Maryland, Tom sang with the Masterworks Choir of Columbia.

In March, 2008, Tom was selected to sing with the Masterworks Chorus of Susquehanna University at Carnegie Hall, in New York City, celebrating the sesqui-centennial of the college, and the retirement of Cyril Stretansky, former music educator of Montrose.

Tom will be accompanied by Mary Ann DeWitt.

The Rev. Janet C. Watrous
Preacher On Sunday, August 17

The Rev. Janet C. Watrous, most recently rector of The Prince of Peace Episcopal Church, Apex, NC, will be the guest preacher on August 17, at the 9 AM Worship. Janet is a longtime neighbor in Susquehanna County, having spent many years with her family on "the farm" outside Hallstead.

Janet was among the earliest women ordained to the priesthood of our church. She has served in a variety of ministries, including heading congregations, interim ministry, diocesan staff and school and campus ministry. She was even licensed to serve in the (Church of England) Diocese of Gibraltar, and served Anglican communities in Slovenia and Croatia in 2003.

Janet is married to Dr. Robert Kochersberger, a professor at NC State University in Raleigh. Their daughter Anne lives in Chicago, where she is beginning the process toward a PhD in psychology. Tragically, their son Charlie died last summer after a long struggle with addiction and depression.

No stranger to St. Paul's, we welcome Janet as our preacher on August 17.

Christian Puppeteer, Susan Klein Returns To St. Paul's, Montrose Sunday, August 24

Susan Klein and her "Family of Friends" will return to St. Paul's, Montrose, on Sunday, August 24 at 9 AM. The popular local ventriloquist will be joined by her "family" to share the Gospel message with children of all ages.

The firm is currently restoring 3,600 wood double-hung and stone set stained glass windows at the Emma Willard School in Troy, NY.

A Community Vespers Service Begins September 14 at St. Paul's

On Sunday, September 14th at 5:00 p.m., the historic St. Paul's Episcopal Church launches a historic venture in evening worship. It plays host to a community-wide Vespers Service, which will be regularly scheduled the 2nd Sunday of each month. Following the service will be a fellowship meal prepared by members of participating churches.

Vespers is a traditional evening service first mentioned in the Rule of St. Benedict in the 6th century; it continues to be used today in Roman Catholic, Orthodox, and Anglican Churches (Evensong); and, it is increasingly finding its way into the liturgical life of other Protestant churches, particularly the United Methodist and Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) Some community Vespers Services serve simply as time for quiet contemplation in the evening hour. It is typically held on Sunday evenings, although some churches (National Cathedral in Washington, D.C., Trinity Church in Princeton), schedule vespers 4 or 5 times a week. It typically uses the Psalms, both spoken and sung, to consecrate the evening to God. Evening prayer, like Matins the Morning Service, can be led by a layperson.

Representatives from several churches in Montrose requested the use of St. Paul's because of its interest in community-wide ministries. The proposed monthly service will include prayers, time for silent meditation, readings, reflections and music. Mary Ann DeWitt and Sarah Bertsch are providing the music on September 14; parishioners of Holy Name of Mary Roman Catholic Church are providing the meal.

An August Martyr

The Spring and Summer issue of the Journal of the Susquehanna County Historical Society includes an account of a lecture by an escaped slave in a local schoolhouse. The lecturer described his life as a slave, and the extreme perversion of his owner, who was also his father.

It is difficult, if not impossible for us as modern, enlightened human beings to comprehend the degree of inhumanity described by that slave until we read about a martyr, Jonathan Myrick Daniels who is remembered in the Church calendar on August 14th.

Jonathan Daniels was born in 1939. He was attending the Episcopal Theological Seminary in Cambridge, Massachusetts in 1965 when he decided to join the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King in Selma, Alabama in support of King's civil rights march to Montgomery.

Daniels spent the spring of 1965 working with the civil rights movement, returning to Cambridge for examinations in May. In July, he worked again in Alabama, listing agencies available to assist people in need. On August 20th, he was with a group attempting to enter a shop in Fort Deposit when they were confronted by a man with a shotgun. When the man pointed the gun at a young girl in the group, Daniels interceded and was killed.

The slave who lectured in Susquehanna County had experienced an indescribable level of inhumanity in the 19th century which, sadly, Jonathan Daniels still faced – and died from – in the 20th century.

The story of Jonathan Myrick Daniels is told by James Kiefer in his commentary on the calendar of the Episcopal Church, available on the Internet.

HYMN STORY: Let Us with a Gladsome Mind (Hymn 389)

Take a moment to listen to these words, and then I will tell you something surprising about them. The words are:

Let us, with a gladsome mind,
Praise the Lord, for he is kind;
For his mercies aye endure,
Ever faithful, ever sure.

(NOTE: The "aye" in this case is pronounced with a long a -- rhymes with "weigh." It means "ever" and not "yes" -- from George William Rutler, Brightest and Best)

The something surprising is this: a fifteen-year-old schoolboy wrote these words. That will seem less surprising if I tell you who the boy was. He was John Milton, who grew up to be a famous poet -- author of the epic poem, "Paradise Lost."

Milton based "Let us with a gladsome mind" on Psalm 136. He hadn't intended to write a hymn, but his poem was set to music by a church organist, John Bernard Wilkes, long after Milton's death, using a tune written originally by John Antes, a Moravian composer.

Project Revelation Begins

So what's a "Project Revelation"? You know the book of Revelation that I've been studying. What would make it easier for people to read it? There are obvious benefits to reading it. The third verse of the first chapter says, "Blessed is the one who reads aloud the words of the prophecy, and blessed are those who hear what is written in it; for the time is near." How many books of the bible offer this kind of benefit?

I have successfully avoided reading it for 68 years. The first twelve can be written off because I didn't know any better. So what kept me from reading it for 56 years? Yes, I did read it twice during the two years when I read my "Bible in a Year Bible". The eyes went over the words. Not much stuck.

OK, Revelation is complex. Martin Luther commented on most of the books of the bible ... but not Revelation. He was not the only one. Complexity is not unique to Revelation. Most, if not all, of the books are complex, to a degree.

There are multiple ways of considering Revelation. Probably no other book of the bible has the diversity of viewpoints as does Revelation. One of my Revelation references has four major ways of considering it ... in parallel format ... verse by verse; two per facing pages. Meaning can get obscured in the details.

Suppose there were an aid to reading the Book of Revelation called "Reading Revelation for Episcopalians". Suppose this aid would be pocket size. Suppose significant references from the Episcopalian perspective were cited. Supposed all 22 chapters were printed, as well. Would that be helpful in getting people to read Revelation? I think so. (You can ...and should... read Revelation from the full bible; the pocket version would make reading it more convenient.)

Half of the benefit expressed in Chapter 1; Verse 3 comes from READING REVELATION ALOUD. The other half of the benefit comes from HEARING REVELATION READ. The benefit is not contingent upon having a particular viewpoint ABOUT Revelation. Read it ... listen to it. Sounds simple enough to me!

I suppose that if I do that often enough (read and listen), I'll be familiar with what Revelation says. Then ... maybe some of the complex terms won't be so complex. Maybe the multiple viewpoints will seem clearer and understandable. Maybe I'll even have a viewpoint about Revelation.

So, "Project Revelation", as do all projects, has an end. Its end will be the publication of a pocket-sized Book of Revelation that includes an Episcopalian perspective and resources for further study. It doesn't matter whether your perspective is left or right; behind or ahead. You will have a tool to READ and LISTEN TO the Book of Revelation. Now that I've passed my 68th birthday Revelation has taken on a keener interest. When I get to my 78th birthday, let's see if "Project Revelation" has been completed. "The time is near," to quote a source.

ACCESS

Over the past one hundred and seventy-seven years, St. Paul's has often seen the need to expend funds well beyond the normal budget in order to maintain its mission to its parishioners and to the community and the world around it.

Each year members of the parish and, ultimately, Vestry agonize over the perpetual struggle between mission and resources, and each year, the parish manages, more or less, to live within the budget and to accomplish remarkable things.

On several occasions during its almost two-century history, St. Paul's has found it necessary to go well beyond the budget for essential, but unplanned-for expenditures.

In 1904, for example, St. Paul's $1000 organ needed to be replaced, and it was replaced in 1912, but at three times the cost of the original. This required a monumental, at least for that time, fund-raising effort.

In 1927 the gift – 'out of the blue' - of the parish house – and of a trust fund for its maintenance – greatly and significantly increased the mission capability of the parish, but even so, as time passed, many building maintenance projects were set aside, "for lack of necessary funds" during a period when each annual budget seemed at first, like an insurmountable obstacle. Finally in 1964 Vestry conducted a systematic study to identify the most crucial repairs needed to maintain the integrity of the two buildings. Again, funds were simply not available but in fact, the renovations and restorations were accomplished, and, paid for – nearly $20,000, - again through an effort few thought possible.

In 1971 when St. Paul's budget seemed stable, more or less, and finally under control, it became apparent that the slate roof of the church could not last much longer. Slates in place for more than a hundred years, began to slide to the ground below. Again, Vestry studied the problem, debating on the selection of materials, some compatible with the slates on the parish house roof and some, less expensive, in sharp contrast. Finally, faith overcame 'reality' and Vestry decided on a program costing nearly twenty thousand dollars, and again, the resulting bills were paid.

Four years later faith again overcame practicality and extensive repairs and upgrades for St. Paul's organ were accomplished at a cost even greater than that of the new roof.

In 2004 after nearly four decades of perpetual flooding in the basement of the parish house, the problem was solved, once and for all, again at a cost well above the cost Vestry thought it could rationally include in the regular annual budget.

Thus, for one hundred and seventy-seven years faith in the importance of God's challenges for St. Paul's, and faith in St. Paul's ability to meet those challenges have resulted in the continuation of, and indeed, a considerable expansion of St. Paul's mission through the years.

Today St. Paul's is faced with another challenge requiring another major effort on the part of the parish. The church and the parish house must be made accessible to people living with their own challenges, as they access St. Paul's facilities for worship and mission. Some years ago a wheelchair access ramp was constructed at the belfry entrance, but it was quickly found to be inadequate and, in fact, non-compliant with applicable access codes. Now, the access problem must be resolved, and it will be, with one more of many 'leaps of faith'.
